

Investors may not often think of emerging markets as offering a value opportunity.

Why should they? Emerging markets are industrializing rapidly, adopting free market practices; rapid social change leads to rapid growth.

In fact, a value approach in emerging markets has produced superior returns to growth strategies over time and better relative returns than in the developed markets.

Mutual fund investing involves risk. Principal loss is possible. Investments in small- and mid-cap companies involve additional risks such as limited liquidity and greater volatility than larger companies. Investments in foreign securities involve political, economic and currency risks, greater volatility and differences in accounting methods. These risks are greater for investments in Emerging Markets. The funds may have emphasis on a specific sector which could adversely affect a fund to a greater extent than if its emphasis was less. The funds may invest in securities that are less liquid and more difficult to sell than more liquid securities. Investments in REITs are subject to the risks associated with the direct ownership of real estate.
